Statement regarding investigation into the Boeing 787 jetliner in which GS Yuasa batteries were installed and efforts to improve the safety of the batteries

GS Yuasa development, design, production and quality teams are tirelessly applying their knowledge and engineering expertise 24 hours a day to ascertain the causes of the problems and improve the safety of the batteries. We are sharing information and collaborating with Boeing, Thales and other partners, as well as the Japanese and US authorities. Going forward, we will continue to work closely with Boeing to enable the resumption of its jetliner operations as soon as possible.

We appreciate your understanding and patience on this matter.
